

A Complete Video Surveillance Assessment

Do you know where to start? We do. Quest examines all aspects of your video surveillance system utilizing our expertise in security and technology to uncover existing and potential video surveillance vulnerabilities.

We provide a thorough assessment of your surveillance equipment to develop an actionable plan for achieving your current and future video surveillance goals. A Quest Video Surveillance Assessment is designed to help you quickly and easily identify areas where your system is exposed to risk factors and then help you prepare a course of action to correct those areas of concern.

Your organization needs a strong defensive posture to deal effectively with daily threats that continue to grow increasingly sophisticated. A video surveillance assessment is an extremely important first step in assembling a comprehensive, advanced proactive security solution that grows with your needs.

By having an outside expert assess your current video surveillance system, you gain from having a client-focused voice that you can trust to give you a no-nonsense assessment.

What's involved?

Beginning with your organizational requirements and the priorities you set for protection:

- Assess your video surveillance for vulnerabilities.
- Assess your system for potential failures that could bring down your video surveillance capabilities.

Assess whether you have the appropriate number of cameras as well as effective surveillance coverage.

What we look for

The following is an overview of some of the critical areas included in your assessment:

Customer Profile

- Understand your surveillance goals
- Develop an understanding of challenges with your current systems
- Develop an understanding of current priorities and future needs

Equipment

- Are your cameras working? Are they working as intended?
- Do you have sufficient storage for the required number of days of recorded video? Are the number of days appropriate?
- Is your recording software working consistently and properly?

Coverage

- Are you actually getting the surveillance coverage you think you are?
- Does the live and recorded image quality meet your goals for both day and night?
- Is your recorded video clear and detailed enough to provide criminal evidence if needed?
- Support & Maintenance
 - Who owns access, administration and support of your system?
 - Who is responsible for maintenance?

We recommend specific ways to improve your security. Upon completion of a Quest video surveillance assessment, you'll receive a full report and specific recommendations to improve your security. Protect your property and your employees. Schedule your video surveillance assessment today.
